

SBS 1130 - INTRODUCTION TO POLITICAL SCIENCE

Credits: 3

The Introduction to Political Science course includes important theories of political concepts, issues, political behavior, processes, comparative politics, public administration, policy, and international relations. Upon successful completion of the course, students have a greater understanding of political systems and political science as a field of study.

Prerequisites: EN 1110 - Composition I

Course Learning Outcomes:	Exceeding	Meeting	Developing	Not meeting	Program Outcomes	Institutional Outcomes
Understand political systems in the U.S. and others across the world.	Analyses political systems in the U.S. and others across the world.	Compares and contrasts political systems in the U.S. and others across the world.	Identifies political systems in the U.S. and others across the world.	Does not understand political systems in the U.S. and others across the world.	LA1, LA6	Critical Thinking/Communication/Global Competence
Understand important political science theories, concepts, and systems.	Synthesizes important political science theories, concepts, and systems.	Explains important political science theories, concepts, and systems.	Identifies important political science theories, concepts, and systems.	Does not understand important political science theories, concepts, and systems.	LA1, LA6	Critical Thinking Communication Competence
Understand political theories and contemporary issues impacting domestic politics and international relations.	Analyzes political theories and contemporary issues impacting domestic politics and international relations.	Explains of political theories and contemporary issues impacting domestic politics and international relations.	Identifies political theories and contemporary issues impacting domestic politics and international relations.	Does not understand political theories and contemporary issues impacting domestic politics and international relations.	LA1, LA6	Critical Thinking Communication Competence Cultural Competence
Understand important political science theories, concepts, and processes.	Synthesizes important political science theories, concepts, and processes.	Explains important political science theories, concepts, and processes.	Identifies important political science theories, concepts, and processes.	Does not understand important political science theories, concepts, and processes.	LA1, LA6	Critical Thinking Communication Competence
Understand strategies for public interaction with government.	Evaluates strategies for public interaction with government.	Explains strategies for public interaction with government.	Identifies strategies for public interaction with government.	Does not understand strategies for public interaction with government.	LA1, LA6	Critical Thinking Communication Competence