AG2300 Foundations Sophomore Portfolio Review

Credits: 0

Students who have completed 45-60 credit hours are required to participate in a sophomore portfolio review. Students will present original art and design work from Foundations courses where faculty evaluate mastery of foundational skills, and identify strengths and areas of improvement. Art and design work will illustrate competency in visual elements and principles of design, drawing, color theory, and three-dimensional fundamentals. Upon successful completion of the Sophomore Portfolio Review, students transition into their major course of study. Students who fail either Sophomore Portfolio Review or the Major-Specific Portfolio Review must schedule and retake the portfolio review the next term it is offered.
