

IL 3000 Illustration Junior Portfolio Review

All juniors are required to participate in their departmental Junior Portfolio Review, which occurs at the completion of the junior year. This review enables the department to redirect students toward certain remedial tasks and helps them to focus on their professional objectives. At the end of this review, students and faculty have identified and discussed strengths and weaknesses in the student portfolios so that the students may address both in their upcoming major coursework.

Prerequisites: none

Course Learning Outcomes:	Exceeding	Meeting	Developing	Not Meeting	Corresponding Program Learning Outcomes	Institutional Outcomes
Organize and present a junior-level portfolio representing program outcomes, and evincing readiness to move into advanced courses in the major.	Demonstrates an exceptional effort at portfolio presentation. All required materials are present, the presentation is professional, and the student is enthusiastic and articulate in presenting their artwork.	An organized and professionally presented portfolio of required artwork and paperwork.	Mostly prepared portfolio review, but is missing some requested items, and/or is inconsistent in professional presentation.	Fails to present the proper assignments and attending paperwork requested by the portfolio review members. The work is sloppy and unprofessional in presentation.	Professional Practice, Critical Thinking	Design Competence, Critical Thinking