

HU 2320 - ETHICS

Credits: 3

This class examines ethical theories and their application towards ethical/philosophical problems. The course also examines the history and evolution of ethics as a major branch of western philosophy. Students explore ethical topics through primary readings, lectures, and class discussions. Upon successful completion of the course, students improve their capacity to think ethically about their lives and the world, and will have engaged a variety of philosophical texts.

Prerequisites: HU 1110 - Humanities I: World Thought I

Course Learning Outcomes:	Exceeding	Meeting	Developing	Not meeting	Program Outcomes	Institutional Outcomes
Understand key ethical concepts within the context of Western Philosophy	Analyzes key ethical concepts within the context of Western Philosophy	Explains key ethical concepts within the context of Western Philosophy	Identifies key ethical concepts within the context of Western Philosophy	Does not understand key ethical concepts within the context of Western Philosophy	LA6, LA7, LA10	Cultural Competence Critical Thinking
Understand a variety of philosophical texts	Synthesizes a variety of philosophical texts	Explains a variety of philosophical texts	Identifies a variety of philosophical texts	Does not understand a variety of philosophical texts	LA6, LA7, LA10	Cultural Competence Critical Thinking
Understand core ethical problems	Analyze core ethical problems	Explains core ethical problems	Identifies core ethical problems	Does not recognize core ethical problems	LA6, LA7, LA10	Cultural Competence Critical Thinking